Hi, I'm Pauline McArthur,
the Australian soft toy designer behind the Funky Friends Factory.
When people ask me HOW the Funky Friends Factory got started...

I say that it I began with a BUNNY!
You see, I began making 'Baby-safe Bunnies' for all my friends' newborn babies with sewn on faces and no chewable, choke-able bits.
They were so popular that I moved on to mass-production (that's where the 'factory' bit comes from!)

Over the years it's been a great joy for me to see other people make and sew toys using my toy patterns!

I hope you enjoy my little critters as much as I do...

Happy Sewing!

How to Make Baby-Safe Eyes for memory bears and soft toys

Are you sewing a baby's first toy, baby gift, or baby shower gift? Do you want to know how to sew a homemade soft toy or memory bear with eyes that are safe for a teething baby or toddler? This post is all about baby-safe eyes for your homemade toys and memory bears! You'll find lots of examples and fun photos of baby-safe eyes, plus tips to make the process easier.

Turn a baby receiving blanket into a cute custom toy keepsake!

Some WILDLY popular toys to sew from blankets! This sweet Fifi Fox was sewn by Pamela Beverley Cutchin. She has embroidered the eyes to make this fox toy completely baby-safe. The baby's name fits on the tummy area and the birth stats are on the feet. Check all the pieces of the pattern for an area to fit embroidery...not just the tummy!

This cute Heather Hippo was sewn by Tina Jessee. I think those eyelashes give this hefty animal such a sweet, delicate look! The bow, ears, and feet were made from the newborn hat and the toy from the hospital receiving blanket.

The best dog sewing patterns for plush toys, memory toys, keepsakes & beginners! Everyone loves a cute stuffed doggy, NOT just kids
